Key Risks

The following is applicable if you subscribe for or settle shares in a different currency than the fund or share-class currency: Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get depend on the exchange rate between the two currencies. The Fund will enter into a derivative with a counterparty. If the counterparty fails to make payments (for example, it becomes insolvent) this may result in your investment suffering a loss. The fund provides a notional exposure to interest rates, which may be volatile. Interest rates react to various economic, fiscal, monetary and political factors. This may result in your investment suffering a loss, up to a total loss. The Fund is exposed to market movements in a single country or region which may be adversely affected by political or economic developments, government action or natural events that do not affect a fund investing in broader markets. The value of your investment may go down as well as up and past performance does not predict future returns. Investor capital may be at risk up to a total loss.
