Key Risks

The value of your investment may go down as well as up and past performance does not predict future returns. Investor capital may be at risk up to a total loss. Bonds are exposed to credit risk and interest rate risk. There is a risk that the bond issuer may be unable to pay interest or repay the bond principal, resulting in your investment suffering a loss. If interest rates rise, typically the value of the bond will fall, which could also affect the value of your investment. The Fund invests in non-investment grade bonds which generally have a higher risk of default and are more susceptible to market fluctuations. This could adversely affect the value of your investment.

Reference Index key features

The Bloomberg US High Yield Very Liquid Index ex 144A aims to reflect the performance of the following market:

- high-yielding fixed-interest USD denominated bonds (rated Ba1/BB+/BB+ or below)
- bonds are more liquid than the Parent Index and include bonds which are issued by financial, utility and industrial institutions that meet specific maturity, credit rating and liquidity requirements
- exclude the 144A tranche securities that do not have an equivalent Regulation S tranche
- bonds for inclusion in the Index must meet certain pre-determined standards (such as eligible currency, amount outstanding, quality, maturity and level of interest payments) on the relevant rebalancing date

Additional information on the Index and the general methodology behind the Bloomberg indices can be found on Bloombergindex website (<https://www.bloombergindices.com/>).
